

Religious Perspectives on Peacemaking and Violent Conflict

A Dialogue with R. Scott Appleby

Friday October 23, 2009

10:30 AM to 11:45 AM

The Forum

Price Center East, 4th Floor

Dr. R. Scott Appleby, Director
Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies
University of Notre Dame

Why, in the name of religion, do some persons engage in violent conflict while others work for sustainable peace? At this Open Dialogue Forum, students will explore these issues with one another and Dr. Scott Appleby, Director of the Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies, University of Notre Dame. Students are encouraged to attend Dr. Appleby's Burke Lecture, What can Catholics and Muslims teach each other about the world? the previous evening, October 22 @ 8:00 pm, Student Services Center: Multipurpose Room.

Dr Scott Appleby is Director of the Kroc Institute, one of the world's principal centers for the study of the causes of violent conflict and strategies for sustainable peace. Faculty conduct research on war, genocide, terrorism, ethnic and religious conflict, and violation of human rights; teach students earning degrees in peace studies; and contribute to on-the-ground peacebuilding worldwide.

Sponsored by:
Burke Lectureship on Religion and Society
Intergroup Relations Program

